Call for new law to punish crims who snub dock

DEPUTY PM Dominic Raab is under pressure to fast-track new laws to punish criminals for refusing to appear in court for sentencing, after the killer of Olivia Pratt-Korbel would not enter the dock.

Thomas Cashman (above) remained in his cell, with his lawyer telling the court the murderer believed the case was "turning into a circus" as prosecutors allegedly sang: "We, the Champions," after his conviction.

Cashman, 34, was sentenced to 42 years while absent from the courtroom for gunning down the nine-year-old in her Liverpool home.

Former Cabinet ministers, victims and campaigners are now urging the Justice Secretary to urgently close the loophole that allowed Cashman to snub his sentencing and remain in his cell without any penalty.

Legal challenge to migrant ship

HOME Secretary Suella Braverman could face a legal challenge over her plan to house migrants on a floating barge.

Tory-run Dorset Council is opposed to the use of Portland Port as the site, with local Conservative MP Richard Drax adding: "We will look at any way we can stop this."

The Bibby Stockholm vessel, which will cost the taxpayer more than £20,000-a-day, could accommodate more than 500 migrants.

Portland Port confirmed it had been selected by the Home Office as a site for a migrant barge, while Dorset Council said it has "serious concerns about the suitability of the location for this facility".

DONALD IN THE DOCK

Former Pres faces court over Stormy payments

A NEW chapter in American history was written yesterday when Donald Trump became the first former US president to appear in court facing criminal charges.

His journey began when he departed his penthouse home in Midtown Manhattan for his appointment at District Attorney Alvin Bragg's office.

Once inside and away from the glare of the world's media, the 76-year-old had his fingerprints taken but will likely avoid the humiliation of having to pose for a police mugshot.

Trump was ushered into the Manhattan Criminal Courthouse, which is inside the same building as Bragg's office, for the landmark arraignment hearing.

All the while, law enforcement officials were praying that the swell of protesters outside remained peaceful.

A huge security operation was underway, with thousands of NYPD cops on standby.

After the court appearance, Trump flew on his private jet back to Mar-a-Lago, his resort in Palm Beach, Florida.

A grand jury decided to indict Trump after hearing evidence about allegations that he paid £103,000 to adult movie star Stormy Daniels to buy her silence over an alleged affair.

Rocket firm now facing bankruptcy

BRITISH billionaire Sir Richard Branson's rocket company, Virgin Orbit, has filed for bankruptcy in the US after failing to secure new investment.

The satellite launch firm halted operations weeks ago but hopes to find a buyer for the business.

The company, based in California, said last week that it would cut 85% of its 750-strong workforce.

Earlier this year, a Virgin Orbit rocket failed to complete its first-ever satellite launch from UK soil.

Virgin Orbit's boss Dan Hart said that although the company had "taken great efforts" to address its finances and secure more funding, "we ultimately must do what is best for the business".

He said that Virgin Orbit will now concentrate on finding a buyer for the firm "to provide clarity on the future of the company to its customers, vendors, and employees".

Virgin Orbit was founded in 2017 and is a spin-off from Sir Richard's space tourism company Virgin Galactic.

Second airport axes liquid cap

LONDON City Airport has scrapped the 100ml liquid limit by using high-tech scanners which also allow electronics to be kept in hand luggage at security.

Travellers can now carry on up to two litres of liquid, and toiletries no longer have to be put in separate bags.

It is the second UK airport to use this tech in all its security lanes, after Teesside introduced it last month.

The Government has set a June 2024 deadline for most UK airports to install the machines.

London City Airport has brought in the C3 scanners which take high-res 3D pics of bags.

Passengers at other airports currently have to remove items such as tablets, laptops and liquids from hand luggage for security checks.

YANKS KILL ISIS MANIAC BEHIND 2015 TERROR SLAYINGS

PARIS BOMB BEAST BLOWN TO BITS

ATTACKS: Carnage in Europe

JIHADISTS: ISIS members

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

THE US military says it has killed a leader of the Islamic State jihadist group who was responsible for terror attacks across Europe.

He was reportedly killed in an American air strike in Syria, US officials confirmed.

The suspect, Khalid Aydd Ahmed al-Jabouri, claimed responsibility for a series of deadly attacks in Europe during the time ISIS controlled large parts of Syria and Iraq, where it ran a self-proclaimed "caliphate".

Al-Jabouri also said he was behind attacks in the Bataclan concert hall and other targets in Paris in November 2015 which left 130 people dead, as well as an attack in Nice in July 2016 which killed 86.

Suicide

That same year, three suicide attacks in Belgium killed 30. The following year, attacks claimed by ISIS in Spain in August left 16 dead.

The US military command said that Monday's strike was carried out in north western Syria and that no civilians were killed or injured in the raid.

It's believed the evil ISIS leader was "blown to smithereens" in the strike.

According to the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights, an American drone targeted al-Jabouri in the province of Idlib, in an area controlled by jihadists.

The military statement added that his death "will temporarily disrupt the organisation's ability to plot external attacks."

WE'VE seen her boobs many times, thanks to TV show Euphoria.

Now Hollywood babe Sydney Sweeney has crammed her busters into a swimsuit range.

Sydney is basking in the success of her first line for Frankies Bikinis.

The actress, 25, posted a video to the brand's account wearing a black bikini with side tie bottoms and a racy scalloped edge top.

Dreamy

She said: "I'm so happy you love the first drop of my collection of Frankies Bikinis. We have more dreamy pieces coming out – tap to sign up for early access so you can get more information."

The Frankies Bikinis website describes their collaboration with The White Lotus beauty as the sexiest yet.

And a fan said: "If she ever needed rescuing from the swimming pool, I'd be happy to help. Once I learn how to swim."

MINISTER POSES FOR PLAYBOY

A GOVERNMENT minister is set to appear on the cover of saucy Playboy magazine, prompting criticism from politicians.

Marlene Schiappa (right) will be on the cover of the French edition of the mag, fully clothed, along with an interview on women's rights and LGBTQ+ issues.

Ms Schiappa, who is the French minister for the social economy and French associations, has long campaigned for gender equality and spearheaded a French law banning cat-calling and the harassment of women.

Green MP Sandrine Rousseau said: "Women's bodies should be able to be exposed anywhere, but there's a social context."

Gazza cut from Moat TV drama

PAUL Gascoigne's walk-on part in the Raoul Moat saga has been CUT OUT of a new ITV drama.

The troubled former footballer famously turned up with beer and chicken as cops hunted for gunman Moat, but the incident has been omitted from The Hunt for Raoul Moat over fears it may "trivialise" the story.

Matt Stokoe will play the notorious gunman who shot and wounded his ex, fatally shot her partner in July 2010, and went on to shoot and blind PC David Rathband.

A week-long manhunt led to Moat turning his gun on himself after a stand-off with police, during which Gazza (above) tried to reach out to save him.

Executive producer Kevin Sampson said: "The Gazza part of the story undermines and trivialises the tragedy of what happened. 'So we've referred to it as a report."

Kendall's BOT is too damned HOT!

Fans shocked by revealing snaps

WITH her pert nipples showing through and her shapely arse peeping from beneath the hem, Kendall Jenner's new photo shoot is RED HOT!

But it's proved too much for some prudes...

Not everyone is a fan of Kendall's sexy shoot from her FWRD collaboration.

After she shared pics from the shoot, which saw her laying in bed wearing a sheet top, Instagram users did not hold back as they expressed their disapproval over the sizzling images.

One fan called for the reality star's account to be accessible only to legal adults, while others criticised Kendall for her skimpy outfit.

However, there were also supporters rooting for the 27-year-old in the comments section, with one attempting to shut down trolls by insisting they were simply jealous of her fabulous life.

"Her account should be labelled as 18+", one commenter tromboned.

A supporter posted: "She loves her body, she loves herself. If she wants, let her post such photos. It looks great.

She's beautiful and her body is a living work of art."

TOWIE LAUREN: BIG BOOBS GET RIGHT ON MY TITS

NATURAL BEAUTY:
Reality star Lauren

REALITY telly babe Lauren Goodger has finally admitted she had a bum lift after previously denying having the arse op.

As the TOWIE star, 36, prepares to revert to a more natural look, she revealed she had the procedure in 2017 and also had her breasts enlarged in 2013 from a 34D to a 34E.

By SUZIE SHELDON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

But now the beauty said she's fed up with her massive knockers.

Lauren said she "has been unhappy for a while" and plans to tone down her look to be more "natural".

She said: "For a couple of years now I've been thinking, 'Why did I ever get my boobs done?' I haven't been happy for a while, but when I fell pregnant, my boobs just became even bigger and I hated the way I looked.

"I look back at old pics before the boob job and I had lovely boobs. I just wish I could go back to natural Lauren."

The telly personality explained how she had jetted off to Turkey for a Brazilian bum lift and described it as "the worst experience" of her life.

Lauren said she is desperate to have a "natural bum" again now but isn't sure how to go about getting it as "there isn't a procedure to reverse the BBL".

She added: "I'm not sure how I'm going to do that yet. I'm not sure if there's a procedure that can reverse the BBL. I'm looking into potentially getting the fat sucked out, but I don't know if that's an option."

"I'm going to speak to different surgeons and figure out my options."

A BBL involves the transfer of fat to help create arse "fullness".

Brooke: I lost my virginity to Superman

HOLLYWOOD legend Brooke Shields has revealed she fled naked from the bedroom after losing her virginity to Superman actor Dean Cain.

In her new Pretty Baby: Brooke Shields documentary, the star (above) recalled running "butt naked" from the room right after losing her virginity to Cain when she was 22 and the pair were a couple at college.

Brooke, now 57, said: "I wanted to jump into the personal relationship and the love and the commitment. We had to teach each other about each other."

She claimed that the Superman star was "more comfortable with the sexual part" of their relationship and admitted she did not initially understand her reaction to getting intimate, but she said she now knows she felt "sort of a regret for lost exploration and opportunity to understand my personal sexuality".

Brooke added: "I couldn't get there at that moment."

Shields said she apologised to her ex "a few years back" for not enjoying the moment more when they dated in the Eighties while studying at Princeton University.

Bar bans sex in its photo booths

A BAR has been forced to issue a statement begging randy punters to "stop having sex" in their photo booths on nights out as staff are fed up with picking up undies and mopping up SPUNK!

NQ64 Arcade Bar told its followers on social media it was proactively trying to get more photo booths in more venues across the UK, but on one agreement.

Workers have pleaded with customers not to perform sexual activities behind the curtains.

But it seemed their plea fell on deaf ears, at their Manchester location as just days later they found an abandoned bra.

When fans voiced their disbelief at what was going on, staff confirmed it had happened "too many times, sadly".

NQ64, which has boozy arcade machine venues in London, Birmingham, Edinburgh and Cardiff, posted: "We're trying to get as many photo booths into as many bars as we can because you love 'em."

"Oh, also, PSA – can you stop giving blowbies/ having full-on intercourse in our booths please?"

"We're sick of having to do constant deep cleans in them. Cheers!"

He explained how his wife Bella Mackie, 39, a writer, often suffered from depression and anxiety and his efforts to help her lift her mood.

"How do you cope when it's bad? And how does Bella cope?" asked Campbell, who also suffers from black moods.

Greg replied: "It depends on the severity and length of time."

He added: "She runs a lot, reads a lot, listens to everything. She has medication."

Naked drive tosser in cop chase drama

A MAN was nicked for furiously masturbating while naked on a stranger's driveway.

Cops got a call from a householder saying an unknown male – later identified as Trevor Henley, 51 (above) – had pulled into their drive in his car, got out naked and started pulling his pud.

When cops arrived, Henley got back into his car and tried to drive off. He drove into a tree, and another car, and left the scene, before leading officers on a high-speed chase.

Baxter County, Arkansas, Sheriff John Montgomery, said cops searched nearby areas and called in a chopper to assist in the search.

Officers later found Henley's car and then used canine tracking to find him. The dog tracking team found Henley hiding in a wooded area where cops arrested him.

He now faces multiple charges including driving while intoxicated and fleeing by vehicle, and is being held in the Baxter County Jail ahead of a court appearance.

Sex-boast Miss gets struck off

A TEACHER who bragged about her sex life and reduced pupils to tears has been banned from the classroom.

Julia Wheeler, who was employed as an English teacher at Pencoed Comprehensive School, Bridgend, faced several allegations of inappropriate or derogatory behaviour towards students.

An Education Workforce Council fitness to practise hearing ruled that between January and May 2021, Wheeler was inappropriate and derogatory towards pupils – calling them “dickheads”, “bastards”, and “fking bastards”, and shouting in their faces.

Wheeler was also found to have referred to a staff member as a “dickhead”, made inappropriate comments to pupils about her own relationships, and wrote the word “bitch” next to a pupil's name on a mark sheet, as well as repeatedly referring to a “friend with benefits” in front of students.

STAY OUT OF BROTHELS

HIT THE ROOF:
PM Rishi

WITH crucial local elections just a few weeks away and the Tories facing a huge drubbing in town halls up and down the country, the last thing leader Rishi Sunak needed was a scandal...

And so, right on cue, it emerged at the weekend a top Tory MP turned up NAKED in a BROTHEL, with no idea of how he had got there!

When the PM got the news, insiders said he "hit the fking roof".

Our source said: "And for a man of Rishi's stature, hitting the roof is no mean feat. He was incandescent with rage.

"The PM had thought that, with his brilliant moves to make potholes illegal, the Tories may have avoided a wipeout in the local elections,

By SIMON DEAN
simon@sundaysport.co.uk

but all that's been put at risk."

As a result, the PM had issued strict orders via party managers for all Conservative MPs to stay out of brothels.

Our source said: "It should go without saying but Rishi has told all his MP's they must not set foot in brothels, crack dens, illegal drinking and gambling joints, strip clubs and sex shops.

"This is the first time a sitting prime minister has explicitly issued such an order."

The latest scandal erupted after the brothel-stranded MP called a senior colleague at 4am and whimpered: "I'm in a brothel. I don't know how I got here and I can't find my clothes."

The astonishing call, which was made during the latter part of Boris Johnson's tenure as PM, has set the rumour mill turning at the Commons, with MPs drawing up shortlists of the most likely candidates.

One MP said: "It has got us all asking – who would be your 'phone a friend' at 4am in a sticky situation? Our conclusion was – certainly not the person that he did call."

It was claimed last year 70 complaints of inappropriate behaviour had been lodged against 56 MPs.

'Corked minge' shame of teen

A WOMAN has been left incontinent after putting a CORK in her vagina during a sex game, then leaving it in for almost four years.

A case study detailing the freak accident was published in the Journal of Paediatric and Adolescent Gynaecology.

It occurred after the unnamed 19-year-old, from Belgrade in Serbia, inserted the stopper in a "state of impaired judgment" during sex.

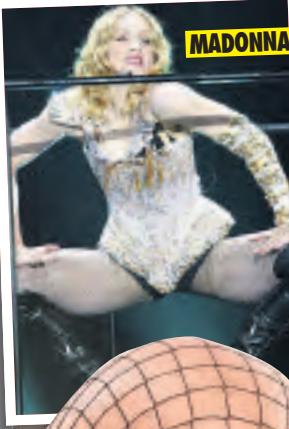

After an initial attempt to uncork herself was unsuccessful, the teen left it in place and put off going to hospital "due to her sense of shame".

WE all knew it really, didn't we?

An internet poll has found that FISHNET STOCKINGS are our fave piece of underwear.

And little wonder...

Who can forget the first time they fingered a lass wearing fishnets?

More than 1,000 people – split equally between men and women – were asked what was their number one item of unmentionables.

And fishnet stockings came in way ahead, with 42 percent putting them first.

The next best was G-string panties, with 37%.

And to celebrate, here are two pages of pics of babes in fishnets.

OAP couple poisoned by fish supper

A WOMAN aged 83 died and her 84-year-old husband is fighting for his life in hospital after they ate puffer fish.

The couple's daughter, Ng Ai Lee, said her dad bought the fish – a delicacy known to contain potent poisons – from a fish shop.

"My parents have been buying fish from the same fishmonger for many years, so my dad didn't think twice about it," Lee said.

"He would not have knowingly bought something so deadly to eat and put their lives in danger."

Ling Tian Soon, the health and unity committee chairman for Johor, in southern Malaysia, said shortly after the couple cleaned and cooked the fish for lunch, Lim Siew Guan began to shiver and experience breathing difficulties.

"Her husband also began displaying similar symptoms about an hour later," Soon said, adding that the couple's son took them to hospital, with Guan pronounced dead that evening.

The cause of death was given as food poisoning.

Truck thief is gunned down

A MAN used an Apple AirTag to track down the thief who stole his truck – then shot him dead.

Cops said they received a stolen vehicle report from a home in north San Antonio, Texas.

They said the truck's owner used the AirTag – a device normally used to locate lost keys – to track the motor 20 miles from where it was stolen.

The alleged thief wasn't aware the vehicle was being tracked, cops said. Officers found several bullet casings and two cars with their windows shot out in the car park of a shopping centre. The suspected thief had been shot dead.

Officer Nick Soliz said that people shouldn't take matters into their own hands if their car is stolen, adding: "If you are to get your vehicle stolen, please don't take matters into your own hands like this. It's never safe, as you can see by this incident."

HOT 'N' HORNY

LOU

BRUNETTE beauty Katie Lou may look sweet and innocent but she's secretly a dominatrix in the bedroom.

Inspired by the Fivey Shades of Grey movies the scorcher, from Canterbury in Kent, said she has tried out some BDSM techniques.

Katie, who boasts a tidy 30G top rack, reckons kinky romps are better than normal shagging.

She said: "Being kinky is a whole lot more exciting.

"I'm definitely into the whole dominatrix thing!

"I like being in control in the bedroom, and I love wearing naughty PVC gear, too.

"And so does the lucky fella I'm wearing them for!"

HOMELESS FEARS:
Maclarens about to be evicted

AN 81-YEAR-OLD maniac murdered his wife and daughter, chopped them up and put the bits in RUBBISH BINS.

Cops received a report from Reginald Maclarens, 81, who said his wife and adult daughter were murdered.

He told authorities that he believes the suspect used a hammer.

Investigators raced to the scene in Englewood, Colorado, and located Maclarens inside the apartment.

When officers entered, they found two victims inside rubbish bins that were on the floor of the living room and kitchen area.

Gruesome

Tracy Jones, division chief of investigations at Englewood Police Department, described a brutal scene.

Even seasoned coppers were disgusted by what they found at the scene.

gruesome crime scenes they've ever been a part of," he said.

During the course of the investigation, detectives determined the victims were both killed with an axe and one of them was later dismembered with a saw.

Detectives established probable cause to arrest Maclarens for the murders as he was taken into custody.

Detectives interviewed the lunatic who admitted to the crime and revealed that he killed his family members because he was in fear of the cost of living.

An affidavit revealed Maclarens had recently lost his job and the family was facing eviction.

The affidavit says the killer revealed to detectives that he's worked with homeless people in the past and he knew "what a miserable life that was".

The Englewood Police Department is encouraging anyone that needs assistance to contact them as the agency pledges to help.

Mass exodus in California

THE Golden State has lost its lustre with more than half a million folk fleeing California since 2020.

The exodus of roughly 508,000 residents from April 2020 to July 2022 was spurred by high housing prices, natural disasters like wildfires and mudslides, and high crime rates in the cities.

The largest population declines were in San Francisco county (7.1%) and Lassen county (7.5%).

Lassen County, in northwest California, was hit by the massive Dixie wildfire in 2021, while San Francisco is now a lawless hellhole.

The ongoing housing affordability crisis is a key factor in the exodus, a spokesman from the California Department of Finance said.

POLICE UNION BOSS ON DRUG CHARGES

A TOP boss at a police union allegedly ran a drug ring from her home and used her office computer to order and distribute opioids and other drugs.

Joanne Marian Segovia, executive director of the San Jose, California, Police Officers Association since 2003, was charged with trying to unlawfully import a synthetic opioid called Valeryl fentanyl.

She faces a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison if convicted.

Police union President Sean Pritchard was shocked by the charges, saying: "She's been the grandma of the POA. This is not the person we've known, the person who has worked with fallen officers' families and organised fundraisers for officers' kids."

According to the 13-page complaint, the 64-year-old (left) allegedly received at least 61 packages of illegal drugs at her San Jose home from various countries – including China, Canada, and India – between October 2015 and January 2023.

Segovia has been suspended from her role.

Arrests after dead dealer found in bag

THE discovery of a bag filled with human remains by a road crew led to a couple's arrest for murder.

Bradley Weyaus, 21 (above), has been charged with murder. His girlfriend, Alexis Marion Elling, 22, was arrested in her home and charged with aiding an offender and acting as an accomplice.

A Mille Lacs County, Minnesota, public works crew called cops after finding a heavy bag while cleaning debris along the shores of Mille Lacs Lake on March 21.

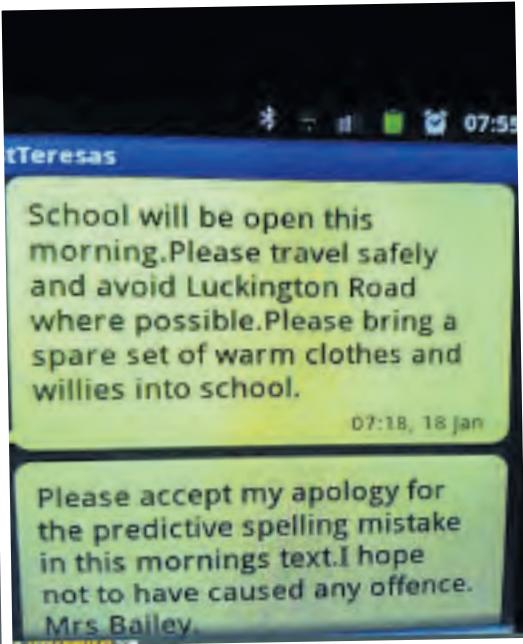

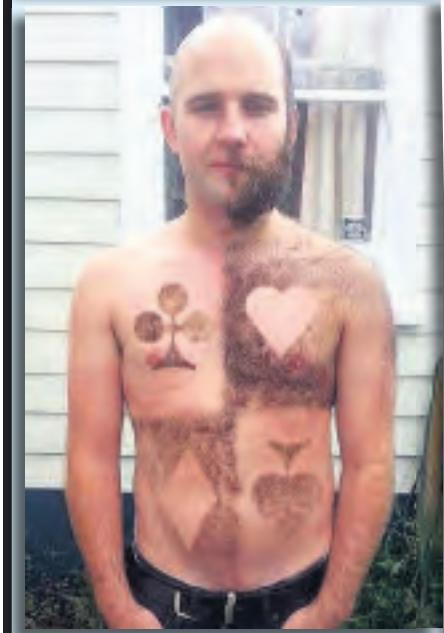

Inside it, workers found what looked like a severed human foot.

That foot, along with other human remains in the bag, belonged to 25-year-old Rodney Pendegayosh, a police spokesman said.

The couple are said to have targeted the victim for selling Elling's brother a fatal mixture of fentanyl and meth in January.

#MY SEX FANTASY

'I'm excited at the idea of having wild group sex'

...WITH CHINTIA
FLOWERS,
30DD, FROM
BUDAPEST

MY wildest fantasy is going to a sex club – I've been quite vanilla in bed and never done anything like that before.

It's definitely on my sexual bucket list, before I meet a man and settle down. I've read about these glamorous sex parties held in grand mansions in the countryside.

People wear suits and cocktail dresses with masquerade ball masks – just like in the Nicole Kidman film Eyes Wide Shut.

It sounds so sexy and seductive – being anonymous would definitely help to lower my inhibitions and go for it!

The idea of group sex, having all those hands and tongues all over you, really turns me on.

It would be total heaven.

I made a New Year resolution to do it this year.

So I best go buy my mask and posh frock and check online to see where some of the best parties are being held...

'Beaten wife' killed hubby with biscuit

A WIFE was found guilty of drugging and killing her husband by lacing his biscuits with sleeping pills.

Neighbours in the town of Walpeup in Victoria, Australia, said that the couple's relationship was marked with violence and allegations that Noel Payne, 68, beat his wife, Rebecca.

In court, prosecutors said Rebecca wanted to get out of the marriage and that she was upset about another woman, Noel had been living in their home with them.

The court heard that Rebecca had dreamt of drugging her husband for months and while testifying, she told the jury she expected him to just "feel sleepy and go to bed" the night she enacted her plan.

On September 1, 2020, Rebecca baked a batch of lemon biscuits and crushed up some temazepam pills with a mortar and pestle.

She used the powder to lace the icing of one cookie, which she gave to Noel that night with a cup of cocoa.

Rebecca admitted when she found her husband with no pulse she did not try to resuscitate him or call for an ambulance.

Teacher is killed in school knife horror

A STUDENT aged just 13 fatally stabbed a teacher, 71, and wounded three other staff and two fellow pupils in a frenzied knife attack at a school.

The five wounded victims from the Thomazia Montoro school in São Paulo, Brazil, are stable in hospital.

The unnamed attacker was detained and the state's military police are currently investigating.

A student said the attacker had insulted another student last week, and the female teacher he killed had tried to settle the conflict.

The attacker called the other student a "rat" and "the other one didn't like it... they began fighting," said Gabriel Livramento, 13, who is in the same class as the suspect.

The attacker entered class wearing a skull mask and stabbed the teacher from behind, hitting her head and back, Gabriel added.

PAIR CUT PAL'S COCK OFF DURING THREESOME

By COLIN HURST

news@sundaysport.co.uk

A MAN and his girlfriend have been sentenced to lengthy jail terms after being found guilty of killing another man by cutting off his JOHNSON during a sex orgy.

Prosecutors said the couple had exceeded "the limits of hate and animosity" through their actions.

During the trial, jurors heard how

Elvan Kucukaltun and his partner of three years, German national Nadja Angela Grosser, invited Kadir Demir to their home in Manavgat, Antalya Province, in Turkey, for a threesome on January 28 last year.

They had previously engaged in a similar sexual encounter in July 2021, a video of which was found on the victim's phone.

They drank alcohol and went on to have sex, before events took a turn for the worse and ended in murder.

The prosecution said Mr Kucukaltun became aggressive towards his German girlfriend during their sexual romp, prompting Mr Demir to intervene on her behalf.

Stabbed

A heated argument ensued between the two men, which quickly escalated into a knife fight, during which Mr Kucukaltun first stabbed his friend in the chest, before severing his penis.

Mr Demir was found to have 54 stab wounds.

After telling his girlfriend to get out of the house, Kucukaltun attempted to bury the victim's body in a nearby park, but was caught by the police.

Summing up the case before the jury was sent out to deliberate, prosecutor Oguz Dilek said: "According to the autopsy report, the number of blows and the locations of injuries on Kadir Demir's body, the presence of two knives in the house during the incident, and the fingerprints on both

The jury returned guilty verdicts and the judge handed down stiff custodial sentences to the couple.

Mr Kucukaltun was given life imprisonment while Ms Grosser was handed a 15-year jail sentence for "complicity in intentional killing".

VICTIM: Kadir Demir

knives indicate that the act was committed together.

The statements given by defendant Nadja Angela Grosser, such as, 'I did not see, I did not hear', are contrary to the course of normal life.

It is not possible not to hear the sounds.

Kadir Demir's body was moved to the living room, a tarp was then prepared, and a grave was dug.

The limits of hate and animosity were exceeded, the victim's sexual organ was cut off, and a celebration was made by drinking wine.

"We demand that both defendants be punished for the crime of 'killing with monstrous emotion'."

The jury returned guilty verdicts and the judge handed down stiff custodial sentences to the couple.

Mr Kucukaltun was given life imprisonment while Ms Grosser was handed a 15-year jail sentence for "complicity in intentional killing".

SEX-MAD Atlanta can't wait to show you how she gets herself off on camera.

The 30D beauty from Leeds loves knowing horny blokes are watching her on camera and playing with themselves.

She said: "I love performing on camera. It gets me really horny to know that men are watching me with their hard cocks in their hands."

"The idea that they're all ready to spunk over watching me get naked for them is amazing."

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Urinals are taking the piss!

URINALS. Just, why?

Who on earth dreamt up the idea of men sharing a metal trough screwed to a wall to stand there together having a mutual piss?

Sure, it was fun at school.

"Highest up the wall" was always great playtime entertainment. But that's when we were eight.

Now, having reached an age much, much older, the idea of sharing a wee tray is increasingly hideous – and bizarre – for many reasons...

1 HAVING to get your cock out in front of other fellas then produce a confident, magnificent stream.

While that scenario might float somebody's boat, like the late George Michael, it's one reason that those not of that disposition are finding shared toilets increasingly uncomfortable.

2 SPECKLES of another chap's tinkle hovering across from next door like an early morning Dartmoor mist, landing neatly on your beige brogues.

3 MEN next to you performing the "no hands" trick by using their foreheads against the wall above the urinal, almost always because they are drunk.

For nervous users, this intimidating toilet act is almost certain to inspire the dreaded hot flush of urinal stage fright.

4 THE "one-hander" – normally an older but-not-yet-retired chap, sighing wearily as he uses his left hand to secure purchase on the wall, and his right to steer the flow.

5 THE "too close" guy. You are stood at the farthest urinal from the toilet entrance, and the other half dozen or so urinals are free, but TCG nevertheless ignores them all and chooses to piss right next to you. See also: The bloke who, when faced with a choice of just three adjacent vacant urinals, actually chooses the middle one.

6 THE disgusting sight of the swirl of the wee slops when sharing a "tray" urinal with several other men.

This will involve a lot of trying to aim your wee at the sorry-looking toilet blocks scattered along the piss gutter. What a life – being peed on all day long until you melt to nothing.

7 THE "chatty man". The fella you have never met in your life and who first entered the toilets with a cough to make sure attending guests were aware of his arrival.

Then he unzips, spreads his legs just a little too far in that weird way politicians do these days, and starts up with something about the weather, or "what's going on with Chelsea FC"?

8 HAVING to walk past the urinals to attempt to reach the relative privacy of a sit-down toilet cubicle.

But it is impossible to sit down, because these are shared toilets, and so the seat and floor are covered in wee, the bowl itself overflowing with turds and toilet paper, and besides, there's no more paper left, the lock doesn't work, and there's nowhere to hang your jacket up.

9 THE new terror of whipping out your todger for some urgently needed bladder relief, only for a "woman" with a beard and an Adam's apple and a shovel strapped to his back standing next to you shrieking: "Pervert!"

10 THE smell. In ladies' loos, they have perfume and potpourri and air fresheners.

In the men's, it's a nauseous mix of thick poo, stale wee, and the eye-watering stench of bleach getting worse throughout the day.

Think of all the things we can do today that we couldn't before – like finding mega black holes, planning a mission to Mars, smartphones, the internet and Emily Ratajkowski.

But no-one has yet come up with a decent, less smelly, less mucky alternative to the urinal, where men are forced to line up like incontinent cattle.

Where's James Dyson when you need him?

Docs remove glass from up pervert's ass

A PERVERT was left in agony and needing surgery after he shoved a DRINKING GLASS into his rectum.

The 47-year-old told A&E staff the glass had been inside him for three days.

Initially, he said it happened by accident before revealing he had inserted the glass himself for sexual gratification while intoxicated, according to the Journal of Nepal Medical Centre.

Bleeding

The man hadn't had a bowel movement in two days, but was able to pass wind, and he had no bleeding but was in a lot of pain.

He also said he had tried to remove the glass himself but had failed.

After an X-ray was done, doctors tried to remove the object but couldn't get a good grip on the glass.

Medical staff then did an exploratory laparotomy, which is a surgery to open up the abdomen.

At that point, they managed to ease the glass out by squeezing the lower intestine.

The man then spent a week recovering in hospital.

Cop car thief dies in chase

A CARJACKER who stole a police cruiser died after he jumped out of it during a high-speed pursuit.

The man, whose identity has not been released, bailed out of the stolen cop car in the Lancaster, California, area during a live-streamed chase.

Video shows the carjacker leaping from the driver's seat while it was moving at about 70mph.

He hit the pavement and smacked his head on the ground before sliding several feet down the 138 Freeway.

The cruiser continued speeding until it collided with a utility pole.

It then skidded to a halt as officers rushed to pull the driver off the road and into another car to administer first aid.

He was rushed to the hospital but died about four hours later.

Porn star Angela: I want SEX with SPACE ALIENS

OUT OF THIS WORLD EXPERIENCE: Angela is curious about sex with consenting aliens

BUM sex porn star Angela White has revealed she'd love to have kinky sex with SPACE ALIENS!

The 38-year-old Australian appeared on podcast Only Stans, hosted by Glenny Balls, and made a series of revelations, including how she'd been camming identical twins at different times and that the longest she's had sex for is SIX HOURS.

The conversation soon turned round to the possibility of extraterrestrial life and alien impregnation, prompting Angela to confirm she'd be up for getting intimate with a Moonman.

"The baby part, I'm no longer sexually turned on at that point," the adult star told Glenny.

of like, if there were intelligent beings that could consent to sex. What would it be like to have sex with an alien?

"I'm curious about experiencing all things I can in this life."

Aliens were just one of many things Angela opened up about on the podcast, as she revealed she'd once been involved with identical twin brothers who both knew the other was camming.

Shocked

She explained that she only realised that they were twin brothers after she was camming – to do things over a webcam for a paying client – with one of them, and he brought his brother into the room, leaving her shocked.

Angela said: "He was one of the identical twins that I fed – then I ended up fing his brother – on purpose! We had a situation, it wasn't just sex.

"He was a fan. OK, there was a timespan. We were really into each other and we were ongoing for a while."

Dear Ashleigh,

I'M a 58-year-old fella and I live in a block of flats where my neighbours are mostly middle-aged divorced women.

Two of them are really fit and last week the three of us decided to have a couple of lagers at my place.

One thing led to another and I ended up mounting one from behind as I played with the other one – before swapping over.

Then I climbed on one in the missionary position and gave her a proper rodding, before doing the same with her pal.

Now one of my lovers has suggested they both move into my flat.

It's tempting, from the sex angle, but I like being free and single.

What do you think?

GE, Birmingham

Ashleigh says...

WHATEVER you decide, just keep bonking – it will keep you all young and fit!

Dear Ashleigh,

I'M a big fan of EastEnders but my girlfriend, who is from up north, is a Coronation Street nut who records all the episodes so she can view them over and over.

I think she's crackers but I realise we all have to make some sacrifices.

Mind you, she does reward me by letting me do her up the bum once a week and also gives me a daily blowjob.

But having sat through all these episodes, I've started picking up a Mancunian accent.

Any advice?

KD, east London

Ashleigh says...

COUNT yourself lucky that she's not into watching old episodes of Crossroads!

Dear Ashleigh,

MY bird's best mate has just split up with her long-term boyfriend.

She's a really fit blonde – with great legs, a lovely round arse and a cracking pair of boobs.

I saw her in the pub a few days ago and she said that she had always fancied me and would like to have sex with me until she finds a new boyfriend.

I'm tempted, as she said she wouldn't tell my bird and I've heard she's absolutely filthy in bed.

What do you think?

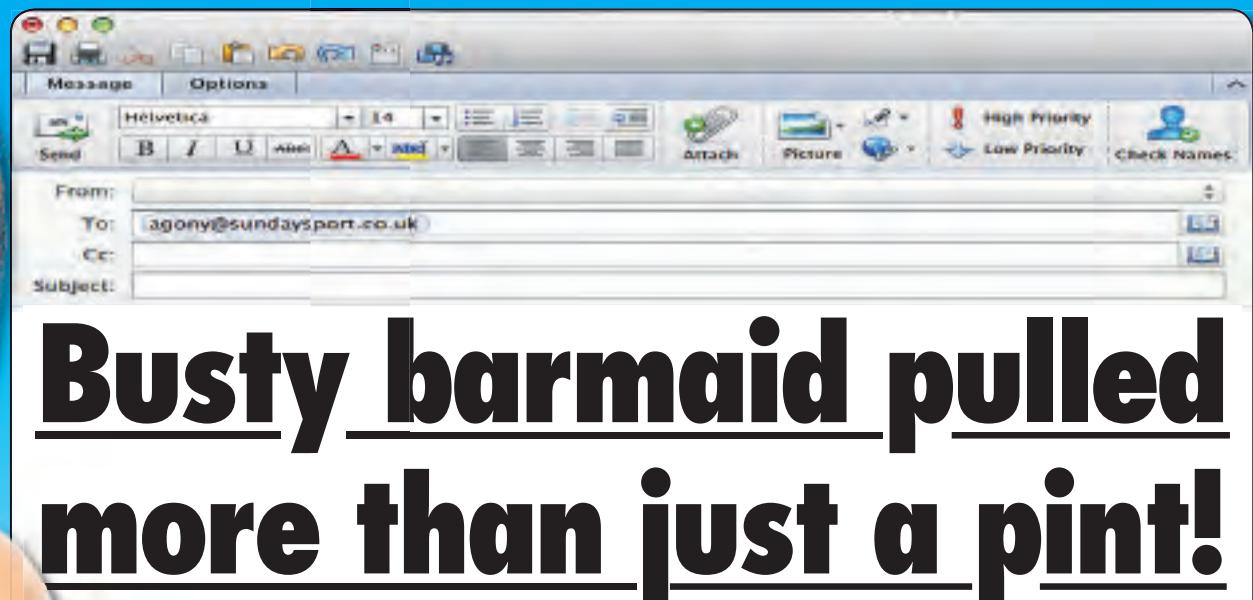

NH, Manchester

Ashleigh says...

IF you can trust her, go for it – but it sounds a bit dodgy.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week ASHLEIGH GEE has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Dear Ashleigh,

A COUPLE of weeks ago, a brand new busty barmaid started work at my local pub.

She's in her mid-40s and is a typical pint-puller – all tight skirts, low-cut tops and a face caked in make-up.

I'm in the boozer most nights for a couple of drinks and the "crack" with some of the locals – anything to get away from the nagging wife for a few hours.

One night, it was a bit quiet and as the barmaid was pulling my second pint I realised I was the only customer in the place.

She had a wicked grin on her face and told me to watch the bar for a minute while she went to the front door of the pub and locked it.

Horny

I told her she'd get a bollocking from the landlord, but she laughed and said he'd gone out for the night and wouldn't be back until the early hours.

Then she grabbed my wrist and led me upstairs to the private quarters.

She said it was obvious that I wanted a shag and as she was feeling horny too, there was no point in messing about.

She leaned forward so her boobs spilled out of her top and rubbed them in my face.

At the same time, I felt her fingers unzipping my pants and she pulled out my cock and began wanking it quite vigorously.

Then she fell backwards on to a sofa with her skirt pulled up and her panties down and skillfully guided my knob into her pussy.

I hardly had time to do some serious shagging before I'd shot my load.

She cried out in ecstasy – but wasn't satisfied with that.

Soon she was sucking me hard again and I had to fk her twice more before she'd let me go!

Now she wants me to leave my wife and move in with her.

But I could never dump my missus for such a brassy trollop.

What should I do?

TD, Leeds

Ashleigh says...

FIND another pub.

Dear Ashleigh,

I'VE been dating my girlfriend for three months. She's 21 and blonde – with a cracking pair of tits.

She loves taking it in every hole and she gives the best blowjobs I've ever had.

But, the best thing about her is her 39-year-old mum, who's also blonde but better-looking with a nice figure.

I've had loads of wanks about her since I caught her taking off her clothes for a shower and saw her 36DDs in the flesh.

She actually gave me a cheeky smile and wiggled her arse at me!

I'm torn between making a move on her or telling my girl what her mum did.

Massive trouser snake made me hiss with joy

Dear Ashleigh,

I'M a 23-year-old woman and I work in a pet shop. A couple of weeks ago a man came in just as I was locking up.

He said he was interested in buying a large, exotic snake. But after a while it was HIS snake that I started to show an interest in!

I noticed a bulge developing in his trousers as he seemed to be turned on by my sales patter.

But I carried on and he slipped his hand into his pocket and I could see him playing with himself.

I was getting a bit excited myself by that time, so I told him I would show him a few reptiles.

I led him to my back room, but I guess he must have twigged what I had in mind.

Thrusting

As soon as I'd closed the door behind us, he unzipped his pants and brought out the most amazing trouser-snake I've ever seen.

It must have been at least 10 inches long and a good three inches in girth.

I bent over a table and he was soon thrusting away at me with his monster cock. I let out a squeal of delight as my dam burst.

He promised he'd come back the next day to pick up his pet snake – but he never returned.

Do you think I put him off by making myself such an easy lay?

FP, Northumberland

Ashleigh says...

YOU were a bit keen. And it seems your snake charmer is now HISstory.

Dear Ashleigh,

MY wife and I went away on holiday to Spain recently.

She's 36 and pretty fit, but we don't often have sex these days.

On our first night, when we had finished our meal, she said she felt tired and went back to the hotel room to get some sleep.

I said I would go for a beer in the town and try not to disturb her later.

In one bar I got talking to a young English girl. She was flirty and offered to take me outside with her.

On the beach, this gorgeous blonde babe went to work, licking and sucking on my length and cradling my balls in her hands as I lay on the sand.

Then I dropped to my knees to peel off her G-string with my teeth.

She had a bush that was trimmed neatly with a landing strip and I slid my tongue into her fanny.

Finally, I bent her over and gave her a right good seeing-to.

But imagine my surprise when I went down to breakfast the next morning with the wife and found out the girl I had shagged was our waitress!

She blabbed to the wife, who's now not talking to me.

What shall I do?

HOT 'N' HORNY

MEGA MILF Constance Devil says her 38F boobs literally saved her life.

The Czech cracker, now living in Oxford, says she was once being chatted up by a bloke who stopped her in the street when a car smashed into a wall.

And the accident happened exactly where she would have been standing if the man hadn't stopped her.

She said: "This bloke was giving it loads and saying how gorgeous I was. I didn't mind. I was wearing a low-cut top and my massive jugs were virtually out of it.

constance DEVIL

"He couldn't stop staring at them but as we were chatting a car smashed into a wall.

"If I hadn't been stopped, it is exactly where I would have been.

"My boobs saved my life!

"Obviously after that I took him home and showed my appreciation by sucking off the nice gentleman."

She added, apropos nothing: "I love the cock and swallowing spunk."

The 28-year-old works at his local pool in Dorset during the winter and as a beach lifeguard in summer.

Jamie said: "I love meeting women but this summer that's not going to happen as much.

"Instead, I'd love to give Dee Ivens the kiss of life – she's still stunning after all these years!"

WELCOME to interactive Midweek Sport – where YOU get to choose the stunnas appearing on these pages!

That's right fellas, we publish sexy snaps of the babes you most want to see – TOPLESS or even NAKED.

Every Wednesday, Show Me The Honey features the cute curves of the glamour girls you're clamouring for. This service – UNIQUE to British newspapers – is totally FREE!

TESSA FOWLER

CHEF Kevin Bennett would be happy to serve up his meat 'n' two veg to gorgeous Tessa Fowler.

Kevin, 34, cooks up a storm in his local pub kitchen in Nottingham and he'd give himself to his Leicester neighbour on a plate.

He said: "Those 34FF boobs get me going every time.

"I'd definitely give her a taste of my sausage!"

"I'd serve up sausage for starter, meat and two veg for her main and then she can have some cream for dessert – she'd have the best meal of her life!"

KAREN WHITE

PERSONAL trainer Charlie Briggs would love to work up a sweat with Karen White and her pert bosoms.

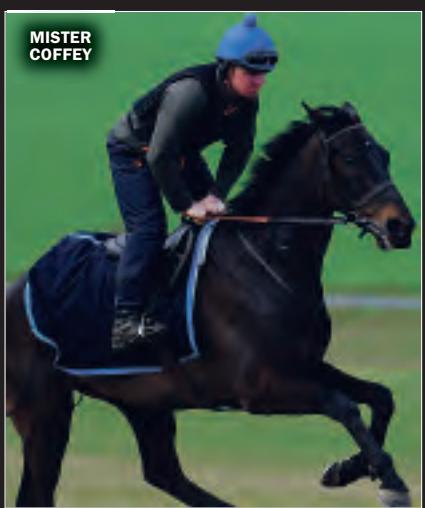

The 38-year-old gym bunny, from Rotherham, South Yorks, would even give the Brighton belle free training sessions.

And he'd be more than happy to offer his support to her perfect 34Ds while she's enjoying a good workout.

He said: "I'm a boob man and I've still never seen a better pair than Karen's throughout the years."

Coffey stirs up National hope for Henderson

TRAINER Nicky Henderson would love to see Mister Coffey fill the only significant gap on his CV with victory in the Randox Grand National at Aintree.

Henderson saddled his first runner in the race 44 years ago when Zongalero was the runner-up in 1979 and has hit the crossbar again since as The Tsarevitch also came home second in 1987.

Whilst practically every other major National Hunt race has been claimed by the yard throughout Henderson's career, the Grand National has remained elusive as the years have passed.

Asked what winning the race would mean after decades of trying, Henderson said: "Well I'm not going to suddenly leap up and say 'that's it' and retire! But on the other hand it would complete the journey, if you like."

"It's been a long haul and I haven't finished yet. But that is the one obvious race I'd love to win – doesn't everyone? I'm sure anyone who's won the race once, twice, wants to go on and win it again because it's very special. We've been knocking on the door a few times."

"I love the place. The race is very special, it's completely different to Cheltenham. Luckily we've been fortunate enough to have some of the best horses around and therefore you're a player at Cheltenham at the highest level and that's where it really matters, but this race is unique."

"It's a completely different game. It would be a pity not to find one someday but the clock is ticking!"

Mister Coffey has yet to win a chase but has some National-track experience having contested the Topham at the Aintree meeting last season.

"We ran him in the Topham last year and he enjoyed jumping round there then. He's in good form and ran a very good race at Cheltenham," said Henderson.

TRAINER: Henderson

"He's been placed in everything you can throw at him. He can't win anything but that's a bit like me in the National!"

"He's perfectly capable of it and it's nice to be going in there with a horse that realistically does have a chance. It would be a surprise to all if I won it!"

Meanwhile, Joseph O'Brien is planning to head straight to the Irish 2,000 Guineas with his Group One-winning colt Al Riffa.

Runner-up to Sunday's

Leopardstown 2,000

Guineas Trial winner Hans

Anderson on his debut at the Curragh last summer,

Al Riffa went one better on his second start before securing a top-level victory in the National Stakes in September.

The Wootton Bassett colt is entered for the Qipco 2000 Guineas at Newmarket on May 6, but is set to remain on home soil to contest the season's first Irish Classic three weeks later.

"He's obviously our flagship horse, he was a Group One-winning two-year-old and he's the one we're excited about," O'Brien said.

"The plan is to go straight to the Irish Guineas and at the moment what I'm thinking is we'll then either go for another mile race or go 10 furlongs. I don't think he'll go into a Derby."

ALL THE TOP TIPS FOR TODAY'S RACING

Don't Cross Boyle in-form flyer Ecto

ECTOCROSS can follow up his win last month in the racingtv.com Handicap at Nottingham.

Unplaced in three runs for Jim Boyle last season, he was well supported on his debut for Simon Dow at Lingfield.

Those who took the fancy prices must have believed they had done their money early on as he was slowly away, finding himself detached in last in a 12-runner field.

Bustled along to get in touch, he raced on and off the bridle throughout, showing distinct signs of greenness throughout.

Carry

However, on turning into the straight he could be spotted going very well but Callum Shepherd then met trouble in running.

It was to his credit that when he hit top stride he made significant inroads and while he only just got there in the nick of time, he actually won quite readily.

He must have posed a real problem for the handicapper as, having been available at 40-1 that morning, he won at odds of 17-2 but only by a head. Racing off a mark of 58 that day, he only has to carry 2lb more now.

WEDNESDAY'S TIPS

David Ménusier clearly has his string well forward having won the Lincoln on Saturday, but there is more than one reason to believe his Entrancement is the one to be on in the Watch On Racing TV Fillies' Handicap.

This filly by Expert Eye took six attempts to get off the mark for the now-retired Harry Dunlop last season, but crucially when she did it was on soft ground at the same Colwick Park venue.

She is up 6lb for that win off 65 but it was clear-cut, as they tend to be in testing ground, and conditions should suit again here.

Coquelicot looks an interesting runner in the Racing TV Profits Returned To Racing Handicap for Anthony Honeyball.

Honeyball is better known for his jumpers, who are currently ending the season in good form, and this mare is pretty useful in that sphere herself.

She has won three bumpers and three times over hurdles and has certainly proven she acts in testing conditions.

Last seen on the all-weather over a mile and a half at Southwell, that would not have been enough of a test for her as she stays three miles in soft ground well enough.

What that run did do though was qualify her for a handicap mark and we will find out if 71 is high enough or not with Andrea Atzeni an interesting booking.

Goodfella could be underrated in the market in the Follow @racingtv On Twitter Handicap.

Patrick Owens' son of Footstepsinthedsand was second at a big price at Yarmouth over seven furlongs before being beaten just a head on soft ground at Newbury three weeks later.

Cruised

There was a regally-bred Gosden horse back in third that day, so the form looks strong.

William Haggas' Bleak can be expected to shape better than on his an eyecatching debut at Newcastle when he runs in the Bet At racingtv.com Restricted Maiden Stakes.

Caught wide on the wing with no cover, he ran keen for two furlongs but still cruised into contention as if he was going to take a hand in the finish.

Understandably he weakened out of it in the closing stages, but Danny Tudhope was certainly not hard on him when his chance was gone and better is expected.

Totnes looks the best bet on the card at Wolverhampton for Andrew Balding in the talkSPORT Powered By Fans Handicap.

She was only 11-2 for her debut against Ralph Beckett's Bluestocking but disappointed and was not seen for another 163 days.

Having totally outclassed her rivals last month, Balding will be delighted with an opening mark of just 71.

Archie Watson's He's A Monster created a big impression when winning at Wolverhampton last month and can defy a 7lb rise in the Price Boosts At Unibet Handicap at Kempton.

TOUGH FOR RORY TO MASTER RIVALS

FORMER US Open champion Curtis Strange has warned Rory McIlroy he faces more rivals than ever as he bids to win the Masters and complete the career grand slam.

McIlroy is joint favourite for the year's first major championship at Augusta National with defending champion Scottie Scheffler and world number three Jon Rahm.

The Northern Irishman was runner-up to Scheffler 12 months ago thanks to a stunning final round of 64 which included an eagle and six birdies.

McIlroy, 33, has also been in good form this season, winning in Dubai, finishing runner-up in the Arnold Palmer Invitational and reaching the semi-finals of the WGC-Dell Technologies Match Play before beating Scheffler in the third/fourth place play-off.

"I think everybody is rooting for him, for a lot of different reasons," Strange, the 1988 and 1989 US Open champion said.

"His talent level is equal to or better than anybody else out there. I think Jon Rahm is a spectacular strong player, but there's a lot of young guns out there now that have the strength, the length, the ability to challenge."

"I think this year there might be more names on that list that Rory has to beat, and fearless names. But he's certainly capable. He's playing well. I think if he can make a few putts, he's certainly going to be there Sunday afternoon."

Strange, who finished joint second behind Bernhard Langer in the 1985 Masters, believes the two players who got the better of McIlroy and Scheffler at Austin Country Club could also challenge for a green jacket at Augusta.

By MIKE FRANCIS

"A guy like Sam Burns, we know how good a player this guy has been, but now all of a sudden he comes into the Masters in great form," Strange added.

"I look at players, their talent level of course, but what's their current form? Cam Young, I just think this guy is so strong that he's going to burst on the scene much like Scheffler did two years ago."

"He looks like to me he could be dominating much like I think a Jon Rahm could be dominating."

Aggressive

McIlroy went into the WGC-Match Play event with a new driver and putter and another two-time US Open winner, Andy North, was impressed with what he saw.

"I do like the changes that he made prior to last week," North said. "I think he looked very, very confident with the driver. It was just a bit shorter, which he said helps him get the club back in front of him. He can be a little bit more aggressive with it."

"I thought in stretches he putted really nicely. There's some other stretches he didn't, but the bottom line is that his game when he's rolling is so good, and Augusta fits what he likes to do so well."

"Can he putt well there? I thought we really saw some stretches where he made a ton of six, eight, nine-footers, and to me those are the critical putts at Augusta."

"If you make all those kind of putts, you're going to have a great week."

LIV AND LET LIV SAYS FRED

By ANDY MILLOM

Garcia a "clown", which could make for an interesting atmosphere at the 87th Masters.

"I'm not expecting anything different," Couples said after a practice round with Tiger Woods and Rory McIlroy.

"I've made comments but they need to understand. If they've looked at anything I've ever said I call myself the same stuff I'm calling them. I just don't think they should bash the PGA or anybody. Just go and play golf."

"People have asked me if I'm going to be paired with LIV players. I would love to be paired with Phil. He's one of the best players who's ever played, loves this place as much as I do and if we did we'd look at each other on the first hole and we'd have a good time."

"If someone wants to stop and ask why I'm picking on 'em I'm all for it but I don't think I've done anything horrific. They're making comments and I'm replying to them and that's it."

"I've told everyone Sergio is one of the top 10 players I've ever seen hit a ball but if he's going to make comments about the Tour I play, I'm going to make a comment back."

"Go and play and have a good time. I have no problem with anyone on the LIV Tour, I really don't."

Masters chairman Fred Ridley confirmed LIV players would not be barred from the year's first major, a decision with which Couples agrees.

"I think they deserve to be here. They should be here," the 63-year-old former world number one added.

"Once again, I have no problem with any of them – just please do not bash a Tour that I have 43 years invested in. It bothers the hell out of me."

"They don't bother me, they really don't. They're golfers, I'm a golfer, I have respect for them all."

Five main Masters hopefuls

RORY MCILROY

Despite losing his semi-final of the Match Play from two up with three to play, McIlroy feels "really bullish" about the state of his game and his chances of completing the career grand slam at Augusta. McIlroy's final round of 64 last year was a thrilling reminder of his talent and a missed cut in 2021 is the only real blemish on his Masters record over the last nine years.

SCOTTIE SCHEFFLER

Scheffler's victory in 2022 came on just his third start and followed finishes of 19th and 18th in the previous two years. It was also his fourth win in six events and the American has been in a similarly rich vein of form this season, successfully defending his WM Phoenix Open title and also winning the Players Championship by five shots before reaching the semi-finals in defence of his match play title.

CAMERON SMITH

It would be easy to forget that Cameron Smith was in the last group alongside Scheffler in the final round and birdied the first two holes to close within a shot of the leader last year. The Australian faltered and finished third, but was also fifth in 2018 and 2020 and claimed his maiden major title in the 150th Open at St Andrews before joining LIV Golf.

JON RAHM

Rahm's form has slipped since his brilliant run of three wins, a third and a tie for seventh in five events lifted him back to the top of the world rankings. The second seed, who withdrew from the Players Championship due to a stomach virus, lost to Rickie Fowler and Billy Horschel to fail to reach the knockout stages and slipped a place in the world rankings as a result. A tie for 27th in last year's Masters ended a run of four straight top 10s.

COREY CONNERS

Connors appears a surprise inclusion on a list made up of major champions. However, the 31-year-old Canadian has racked up three straight top 10s in the Masters, having missed the cut on his debut in 2015 and then failing to qualify until 2019, when he finished 46th. Eight of his last 12 rounds at Augusta have been par or better, including a second round of 65 in the low-scoring edition in 2020, which was staged in November due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

FOAKES DREAMS OF OVAL DATE WITH ENGLAND'S ASHES RIVALS

BEN FOAKES admits it would be unbelievable to play in an Ashes Test at his Oval home, but knows being focused on the day to day will help block out the noise regarding his "unique" situation.

The England wicket-keeper is back at Surrey and ready for County Championship opener at Lancashire on Thursday after a solid winter where he registered half-centuries in Pakistan and New Zealand.

Foakes, widely recognised as the best gloveman in the country, has largely been a mainstay since Brendon McCullum and Ben Stokes revitalised England's red-ball fortunes to win 10 of their last 12 Tests.

Unique

With a home Ashes series set to get under way in June, Foakes would ordinarily be a sure bet to play the opener at Edgbaston all the way to the final clash at the Oval but Jonny Bairstow's looming return remains the elephant in the room.

"I'm happy with the way things have gone for me so it is a bit unique to be asked about that (my place), but I can't remember a time when I haven't been," Foakes said.

By ANDY MILLOM

"It's the Ashes so you obviously think about it but because I try to take it day by day, I am always prepping to see what I need to be ready for the Ashes and whatever happens.

"It is more about the process of getting there than actually looking too far ahead but obviously it's a really exciting summer for whoever is involved and hopefully it's me!"

"As a Surrey player, it would be unbelievable to play here and yeah they often do boil down quite nicely here. To play an Ashes, win an Ashes and to do it here would be the icing on the cake."

Speculation over Foakes' place remains and he was quizzed about Bairstow during the winter series of New Zealand, which ended with an agonising one-run loss in Wellington.

Foakes was unable to get England over the line in pursuit of 258, the Surrey player ninth man out after making 35.

It saw the run of series wins under Stokes and McCullum halted following a thrilling 1-1 draw in New Zealand and could open the door for Bairstow to potentially return from the serious leg injury that ended his sensational 2022 with the gloves, a role he has performed in 49 of his 89 Test appearances.

But Foakes insisted: "It's not a question for me. That's for Baz and Stokesy but I haven't got a clue. As a sportsman that's probably one of the things you have to deal with, the external stuff. I think the easiest way I've found to deal with it is not dealing with it, just not worrying about it."

"I've found by doing things like staying off social media, not checking Cricinfo during series and things like that just allows me to play the game of cricket again and be more focused on whatever my job is that day."

"I think it's just a distraction you don't need. It can just muddle your thinking I guess."

Foakes will be aware a strong start to the domestic season would help quieten the noise but he pointed out his role at Surrey differs from that with England.

Working

Despite the boldness and attacking intent of 'Bazball', the 30-year-old is often the calming presence required at the end of an innings, whether it be eking out more runs or leading them home in a chase.

While Foakes was unable to do that in Wellington, he is confident a different outcome would occur in the Ashes.

He added: "That's the area I've been working on the most."

"I was really happy with the way I stuck to my processes and did what I wanted to do, but obviously gutted to fall just short and not quite get over the line."

"Just having that experience, I think you naturally learn and you can improve in those situations."

BLUES PLAYERS IN THE WRONG

BRIGHTON boss Roberto De Zerbi believes Chelsea's players must take some blame for the sacking of Graham Potter and feels too much focus is placed on the influence of managers.

Potter left Albion to take over at Stamford Bridge on a five-year contract in September but was sacked on Sunday following seven wins from 22 Premier League games.

Italian De Zerbi filled the vacancy at the Amex Stadium and has the high-flying Seagulls challenging for Europe going into the final quarter of the campaign.

Potter's dismissal came just hours after Brendan Rodgers left Leicester and took the number of top-flight managerial departures this term to 13.

"I'm really sorry," said De Zerbi. "It's bad news for the coaches because I think you give too much importance to the coaches because the players are always most important."

"I don't like when the coaches are sacked because the responsibility is not only of the coaches – (it is also) the players, the club."

"In Italy we are used to changing a lot of coaches every season. In the Premier League it's different but I think it's changing also in the Premier League."

"I think the coaches are not so important like the people think – when you win and when you lose."

"The coaches can give the players mentality, ideas, a style of play, but if you speak about results you can achieve the results with the quality of the players and not only the quality of the coaches."

Potter guided Brighton to the highest finish in the club's history last term – ninth place – and extended the fine form into the current campaign, leading to him being poached by Chelsea.

De Zerbi thanked his predecessor for his work on the south coast but said it was hard to comment on why he struggled for results in west London.

Situations

"It's difficult when you don't know the situation in another dressing room, in another team," he said.

"I don't like speaking about the other teams and the other coaches. But I'm sorry because when there are these situations, they are sad situations."

"I have a big confidence in myself for sure but I think I am lucky to have these players and I have to say thanks to Graham Potter because I found a team with a very good mentality, very good attitude."

Asked about the Brighton's objective for the rest of the Premier League season, De Zerbi said: "To play next year in Europe."

"Which Europe, we don't know, we will see."

"We want to play in the middle of the week next year – three games per week would make us happy."

HAWKINS WAITS ON WALES SPOT

RUGBY UNION

WALES centre Joe Hawkins faces an uncertain Test future after signing for Gallagher Premiership club Exeter.

The 20-year-old Ospreys player has won five caps and was a key part of Warren Gatland's recent Guinness Six Nations campaign.

But players plying their trade outside Wales must have won a minimum of 25 caps to be available for national squad selection.

Hawkins, whose Exeter contract starts officially on July 1, will not link up with the Chiefs until after the World Cup in September and October if selected by Gatland.

Wales' previous selection policy for exiled players of 60 caps had dispensation clauses, but it is unclear whether the revised version contains any.

Hawkins could be available for the World Cup, which starts in September, but he would not be eligible after the tournament.

Gatland spoke highly of Hawkins during the Six Nations, and he is among the game's hottest prospects, so it is potentially a major blow for the Wales head coach.

Speaking after the move was announced, Hawkins hailed Exeter's ambition. "It's a new challenge for me and something a bit different, especially moving away from my home region, who I will always be thankful to for giving me the playing opportunities that I've had up until now," he said.

"That said, it does feel a home away from home, especially with all the Welsh backs that are down there already."

"I liked what they had to say about how they want to play and how they want to create a new team capable of challenging at the very top. That really appealed to me, I wanted to be part of it, and I wanted to be there at the start of this journey."

Ospreys head coach Toby

Booth admitted frustration at not being able to retain Hawkins.

"It is a disappointment to lose Joe. He is a player that we have spent a lot of time developing over the last two years," Booth said.

"A big focus of what we are trying to do is to keep our young Welsh players, but sometimes it is not possible."

Exeter have also signed Hawkins' Ospreys colleague Ethan Roots.

The 25-year-old Kiwi has excelled in the back-row and will help offset the departures of Chiefs flanker Dave Ewers and number eight Sam Simmonds to Ulster and Montpellier, respectively.

DISMISSED: Rodgers

What next for Rodgers and Potter?

GRAHAM POTTER

LEICESTER: Potter has already turned down the King Power hotseat saying it has come too soon.

CRYSTAL PALACE: The 47-year-old upset a lot of Brighton fans when he swapped the south coast for Stamford Bridge in September, particularly as most of his backroom staff followed. His standing among almost all Seagulls supporters would plummet were he to take charge of their bitter rivals. Palace have Roy Hodgson until the end of the season but will make a longer-term call in the summer.

TOTTENHAM: Potter was linked with Spurs during his Brighton days. He will surely once again be under consideration by the north London club, who last week parted company with Antonio Conte, albeit his capacity to lead a so-called top-six club is now under question. While Tottenham's smaller squad and propensity to be less active than Chelsea in the transfer market would suit Potter's coaching methods, he is far from favourite for the job.

BRENDAN RODGERS

TOTTENHAM: Having left Leicester in the relegation zone, the bizarre nature of the managerial merry-go-round means Rodgers is being touted as the next manager of a club chasing a top-four finish. He is Tottenham's number one choice with many bookies. The 50-year-old has experience of Champions League football and managing clubs with global fanbases from Liverpool and Celtic.

CHELSEA: The Northern Irishman has history with Chelsea having worked as their youth coach and reserve-team manager. German Julian Nagelsmann, who was replaced at Bayern Munich by ex-Blues boss Thomas Tuchel, the leading contender and it would require a number of candidates to turn down the role for Rodgers to return to west London.

MOVE ABROAD: Potter launched his career in Sweden with Ostersunds and is not afraid to take a risk but may wish to have another crack at the Premier League while his stock remains relatively high. Aside from his time in Scotland, Rodgers has only coached professionally in England. He has previously expressed a desire to manage in Europe and already speaks some Spanish, in addition to a basic level of French.

LIVERPOOL GAFFER ADMITS HE'S KLOPP A PAST MASTER

Anfield gaffer knows he's living on his former glories after poor season

LIVERPOOL manager Jurgen Klopp has admitted he might find himself on the growing list of Premier League managerial casualties this season were it not for his past achievements at Anfield.

Sunday's exits of Brendan Rodgers from Leicester and Graham Potter from Chelsea made it a record 12 managerial departures in the Premier League this season—not counting Potter's decision to leave Brighton for Stamford Bridge—with managers under pressure like never before.

It is only a year since Liverpool came within a couple of games of an unprecedented quadruple, losing the Champions League final to Real Madrid and finishing a point behind Manchester City in the title race, but even so discontent was growing among fans after Saturday's 4-1 loss to City.

By PAUL THOMAS

"I think the elephant in the room is why I am still sitting here in this crazy world," said Klopp, who has won the Champions League, Premier League, FA Cup and League Cup during his time at Anfield.

"I'm aware of the fact I'm sitting here because of the past and not because of what we did this season.

"If this was my first season it would be slightly different. Yes, we have smart owners who know about the situation. Better ask them why that's the case."

Saturday's defeat at City was not only humbling for the manner in which Klopp's side capitulated in the second half, but it also left them eight points off the top four.

When asked why clubs were being so quick to make changes, Klopp put it down to underachievement on the pitch and admitted Liverpool are in that category this term.

"It's 12 (managers) this season which is an awful number," he said. "It is how it is."

"I think there are always years when it happens more than others. Some clubs are underachieving this year and obviously we do."

"Especially when you are in a relegation battle then clubs know how much it means from a financial point of view but you could say similar about getting into the Champions League and not."

Deliver

"There are expectations and rightly so, and if you don't reach them you have to accept the decisions."

Asked if he feared for his position, Klopp added: "No, but I don't think Graham was afraid. There's no need to be afraid."

"I'm here to deliver. I'm not here as a talisman or for murals on house walls. I'm here to deliver, I know that 100 per cent. There is nothing else in my mind."

"I also know I'm here because of what happened in the last few years. I don't like the fact I pretty much have to rely on that, but is it right? We will see in the future. I'm fully in, there's no doubt about it but we have to sort it out. We cannot just continue playing like we do from time to time."

Times have been hard on the other side of Stanley Park too but there have been positive signs from Everton since Sean Dyche took over from Frank Lampard.

They had a late screamer from Michael Keane to thank for taking a point at home to Tottenham.

The former Burnley defender had earlier given away a penalty to give the Londoners the lead.

This point represents another step in the right direction for Everton, who are beginning to show resilience

UNDER MASSIVE PRESSURE

BROKEN MEN:
Klopp's Liverpool
crumbled at Manchester City

and solidity under boss Dyche. They took the initiative after going down to 10 men and got their reward thanks to Keane's heroics.

"I am really pleased. I have mentioned the word ownership and they are beginning to own it now," Dyche said.

"As coaches you can only lay down what you think is correct and it is down to the players to take ownership of it."

"I think they are. They are growing all the time with that mentality. The quality has improved, the physical quality has improved the way we are going after teams."

"We are being more effective as a group and I am very pleased with that."

The whole stadium thought we were going to get a winner, and I certainly did with the intent the team provided.

"But I'm more pleased that the mentality has been growing here, and the way the team are working now, it's something I'm really proud of. You want to play, of course we do, but it starts with hard graft and the energy and the commitment to the cause and the challenge, and also the shape, the basic fundamentals have to be delivered, and I think we're delivering that all the time, and then the growth in the mentality."

"Ten v 11 is tough enough and then they score a penalty, and I thought we were terrific after that."

"Then you score a great goal and get a point, and deserved that at least, I thought. Even 11 v 11, I thought there were a lot of great things about our performance."

"It's another step in the right direction. It's only a point but it's a meaningful point."

"The mentality is getting stronger and stronger and I think that will hold us in good stead as we go forwards."

ONE GAME AT A TIME FOR JOTA

JOTA believes Celtic's ability to keep their focus on the next game is the key to their remarkable domestic consistency.

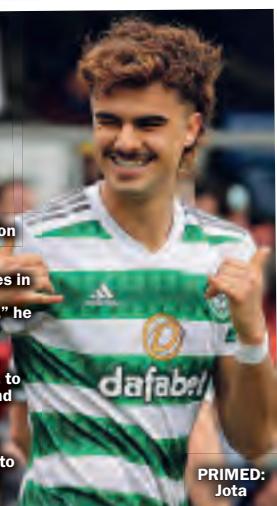

The Hoops have won 28 of their last 29 matches in Scotland, including their last 15.

"To be honest, I didn't even know the numbers," he said of Celtic's impressive stats. "I don't know if some of my team-mates know.

"I just think day by day and game by game. We always go into the games to deliver good results, to win, to deliver good performances for the fans and for the staff. That is what we want to do. We just want to do that until the end of the season.

"We have our aims and our goals and we know that it is not going to come in one day. You need to build a good foundation and we have been doing that since the beginning of the season."

Mourinho wants De Gea as keeper snubs United deal

By JOHN ANTHONY

JOSE MOURINHO will try to bring David De Gea to AS Roma on a free transfer this summer.

The Manchester United keeper's deal finishes at the end of this season and he has so far snubbed a new offer.

It means he could finally leave Old Trafford after 12 years at the club.

Mourinho is looking to replace veteran Rui Patrício between the sticks in the Italian capital.

And he knows 32-year-old De Gea well from his time at United.

Roma know it wouldn't be a cheap deal with De Gea thought to trouser around £350,000 a week in Manchester.

And there is certain to be lots of competition from the likes of Juventus should the Spaniard confirm he is leaving the Premier League.

Despite losing his place in the Spain squad, De Gea has been in fine form this season and is a major reason why the Red Devils are bang in the top-four picture.

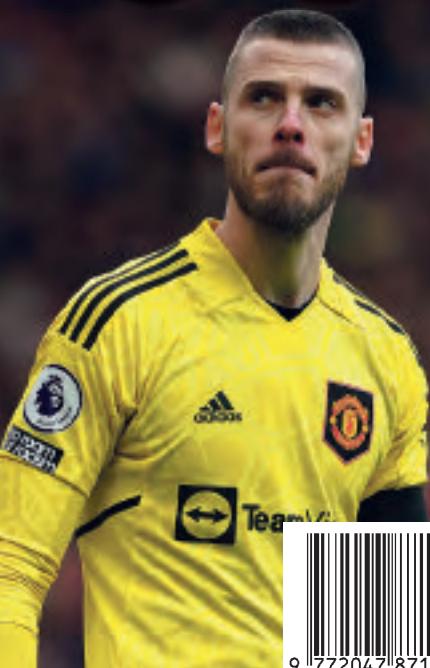

But they suffered a poor defeat against Newcastle at the weekend which dented their hopes.

That has led United defender Diogo Dalot to call for a perfect end to the season.

He said: "We have to focus on ourselves. We know it's all about us.

"If we control games, if we play like we have the ability to play, I think we can win every game."

"This is our aim, I think this is the consistency that we have to show on the pitch every single game from not until the season is over."
